Visiting Actress Stars In BYU Drama Tonight

by Sally Arnold

A three-act play, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," by Rudolph Deixler, will be presented Friday and Saturday nights, July 1 and 2, at 8:15 p.m. in the Smith auditorium.

Dr. Lael J. Woodbury is director of the play, and Flo French, visiting artist on campus during summer school, will star as Elizabeth Barrett.

The scene of this famous play is the Moulton-Barrett residence at 50 Wimpole Street, London, in 1845-46. Elizabeth Barrett has been invalided by a fall from a horse, and leads a life of seclusion, a virtual prisoner of the terrible tyrannical, almost incestuous adoration of her father. Her life is brightened only by the liveliness of her brothers and sisters, and by the poetry she loves. Her interest in literature leads to a correspondence with poet Robert Browning, who comes to visit her and is charmed by her intelligence and sympathy. He courts her, against the wishes of her father, until she finally agrees to marry him. Because of the selfish, unbalanced attitude of her father, they are forced to elope to Italy accompanied by Elizabeth's faithful maid Wilson, and her cocker spaniel Flush.

Miss French comes to BYU with a wide background of experience in the legitimate theatre, radio, and television. She received a BFA degree in drama and speech at the University of Iowa, and served four years as a staff actress with the Cleveland Playhouse. She worked in community theatres in Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Huntington, West Va.; and Saginaw, Mich.

Miss French spent eight summers doing summer stock in the East and Middle West, and taught Communication Skills at the University of Iowa for one year. She has done radio and television work in Iowa City, Iowa; Cleveland, Ohio; Huntington, West Va.; and New York City. She has played over sixty-five roles altogether.

She is married to Director Bart French, and is the mother of three small children.

The rest of the cast includes Garth Seegmiller as Dr. Chambers; Carla Coney as Wilson; Virginia Blaisdell as Henrietta Moulton-Barrett; Mabel Corbett as Arabel Moulton-Barrett; Lynn Dunn as Octavia Moulton-Barrett; Robert Mitchell as Septimus Moulton-Barrett; Fred Adams as Charles Moulton-Barrett; Harold I. Hansen as Edward Moulton-Barrett; Joyce C. Crystal as Bella Huckle; Norman Marchant as Henry Evans; Ira Hurst as Doctor Fordwater; and Nathan Smith as Captain Surtees Cook.

Recital to Be Presented By Actress in Assembly

Recital of dramatic readings will be presented by Rhoda Jordan, well-known actress, in next Tuesday assembly at 9:45 a.m. in the Joseph Smith Auditorium. Public is invited.

Miss Jordan, who is visiting on campus and who will star in the production, "Antigone," on July 7, 8, 9, has presented numerous recitals. She has been actively engaged in stage, radio and television action for several years.

Scholarships Established For Education

One hundred scholarships valued at $100 each have been established in the field of education at Brigham Young University, according to a recent announcement by the Board of Trustees.

The scholarships are offered to high school graduates and college students majoring in education and are renewable for a maximum of four years on the basis of academic progress.

Any student interested in these teaching scholarships should contact Dr. Selby G. Clark, chairman of Scholarships, Awards, and Financial Aids, immediately. Applications must be received by July 15. Teachers and principals are urged to recommend outstanding students who are potential teachers.

Students receiving the scholarships must enroll or be enrolled in the College of Education and must receive a teacher's certificate at the end of four years.

ANTIGONE LEAD—Rhoda Jordan, noted actress, will take leading role in "Antigone" which is scheduled for three nights next week by University Speech and Dramatic Arts Department.

'Antigone' Cast Announced For Coming Production

Rhoda Jordan, well-known actress and recitalist, will star in the title role of "Antigone" which will be presented by the Brigham Young University Speech and Dramatic Arts Department under the direction of Dr. Harold I. Hansen.

Scheduled for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, July 7 to 9, in the Joseph Smith auditorium at 8:15 p.m., the three-act play is based on the Greek Sophoclean tragedy.

The cast for the play is as follows: Dr. Lael Woodbury as Creon, Jack Davis as the chorus manager, Charlene Tilly as Esmene, Dorothy Whitaker as the nurse, Robert Allred as Ismeron, Jim Doernmann and Lynn Dunn as sentries, and Nathan Smith as the messenger. The chorus members are Ramona Hickman, Mary Christensen, Ted Beekstrom, Geraldine Horn, Barbara Perkins, and Green Adams. Fred Adams is stage manager with Gerald Wilde and Junius Hamblin in charge of light design. Sets supervisor is Robert Strubbers. Costumes are made by Winifred Bakers under the supervision of Dorothy Whitaker and Mickey Barrow.

Miss Jordan was on campus in 1953 at which time she gave a recital. Besides her stage and recital work, she has appeared on radio and television shows, and has taught at Fisk and Hamilton Schools. Currently affiliated with the Southern University at Baton Rouge, La. She is married to Alonzo Carmichael, an architect. The couple has one son.

Tickets are available in the Joseph Smith ticket office. Students may receive tickets by presenting activities. Reserved seats are available for public.

ON WIMPOLE STREET—Characters starring in "Barretts of Wimpole Street" will be seen on stage of Joseph Smith building tonight and tomorrow night. Taking roles in the stage classic are Carla Coney, Flo French, and Virginia Blaisdell. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

Provo, Jan

Students Await Provo City Holiday Events

Classes will be dismissed on Monday, July 4, and students and faculty are urged to join with Provo residents in participating in the events of Provo's elaborate Independence week, which is now underway. A full and varied program of events has been planned for the coming week-end. Pioneer Park will be the center of activities all day today and tomorrow with bazaar concessions and a carnival being featured. Tomorrow night a Square Dance Jamboree will be held in the parking lot at First West and Third North streets.

A public sacred Patriotic Assembly, sponsored by the four Provo LDS stakes will be held Sunday evening at 7:30 in the George Albert Smith Fieldhouse. United States Senator Arthur V. Watkins will deliver the major address. Rhoda Jordan and Flo French, two nationally celebrated actresses on the BYU campus for summer school, will give patriotic readings. BYU students Colleen Lawrence, Sam Thompson, and Bob Thompson will participate on the program by singing patriotic songs.

The traditional Independence Day parade will start Monday 10 a.m.

The climax of the week will take place Monday evening at 8:30 p.m. when several hundred singers, dancers, and musicians, including students and faculty members of the BYU, will combine to present a spectacular variety show, "Panorama."

The show will offer entertainment acts such as the Las Vegas Rhythmettes, a 35-piece show band, a musical pageant depicting Americana, and others. The show is built around the theme of the glorious Fourth and staged as a birthday salute to the USA.

Miss Liberty Belle for 1955, Miss Mary Dawson, was crowned Wednesday night at Pioneer Park. A recent BYU graduate, Miss Dawson will be attended by Marilyn Worsley (Miss Talent), Diane Smith (Miss Personality), Carolyn Collister (Miss Evening Gown), Karen Dixon (Miss Charm), Karma Hunter (Miss Congeniality), and Ann Tuelser (Miss Bathing Beauty).

A fireworks display in the stadium will come as a fitting end to the festivities.

Girls' Swim Class Begins Tuesday In New Provo Pool

A swimming class for women to be held in Provo's new pool beginning July 5, according to announcement from Brigham Young University's Extension Division.

The classes, which will be held from 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, will be instructed by Barbara Chum Velasco, registered BYU swimming instructor.

Extension Division officials said the course was designed for those women who would like to take a beginning class in swimming. The class will include ten lessons given over a period of five weeks.

Big Contrast...

Dear Editor:

I don't know exactly where you "hang out" all the time, but I hope that you have a cool spot.

The other day I went to an education class in the McKay Building then dashed over to the North Building to a soc. class and I tell you, I would like to have died of the heat. Each day, I'm fixed up all comfortable one hour and the next I sweeter and sweat.

Oh anything be done to cool those poor profs. who teach in that North Building??

Well, I don't plan on any classes in the North Building next term unless they are early in the morning. I reckon that this complaint will go over like a lead balloon anyway.

Modern Dance...

Dear Editor:

Many times we have had on campus, artists whose talents and arts are not fully appreciated. Erick Hawkins and the dance concert on Tuesday night was an example.

Mr. Hawkins brought to campus an art which is relatively new on the BYU campus. And even though I do not understand modern dance and the theories of it, I gained a view of something entirely different from anything I had ever seen. This view stimulated my thinking and certainly began to foster a growth of appreciation for the art of modern dance.

The body control and coordination was worth seeing, if one gained nothing else from the concert. However, students should never avoid an art which they do not understand. Many do and use that "thin" excuse.

I think those responsible for arranging Mr. Hawkins' visit to BYU should be commended for bringing to campus an artist whose art is so different and stimulating.

Library Fines Total Over $1000 a Year

by Norman Akita

Fines totalling more than $1000 were collected from students at the Heber J. Grant Library during the last three quarters of school, according to Naama Rich, BYU librarian.

Money collected as fines from students is deposited in the university's general fund and used for library purposes. The purpose of levying fines is to emphasize the necessity of returning books promptly. When books are not returned on time the borrower deprives other students of an opportunity of reading them, Miss Rich said.

It was stressed, however, that the money collected did not represent a profit for the library. Instead, the time consumed in collecting fines plus the expense to print fine cards result in a deficit rather than a profit.

Cooperation of students in returning books that are due is necessary in "making books available to as many people as possible."

Comparisons indicated that BYU library fines average less than fines at eastern universities. Fines which would exceed the value of the books kept for long periods of time are reduced, circulation librarian, Lucille Thorne, related. The library never charges a fine more than the value of the book.

One library problem is created by students who borrow several books at once and do not return them on the day specified. Such fines are multiplied by the number borrowed.

A book, checked out 12 years ago, was returned to the library last spring quarter. No charge was stipulated—only a big thank!

Important Dates Listed By Graduate School

Six important dates for master's degree candidates who expect to complete their degree requirements during the current summer session were listed today by the Graduate School.

Those graduates who plan to participate in the August 19 commencement exercises are asked to keep the following dates and deadlines in mind:

* July 15—Proposed deadline for cap and gown rental orders.

* July 23—Last date on which original approved thesis may be submitted to Graduate School.

* August 5—Last date for oral examinations.

* August 10—Last date graduation fees will be accepted at treasurer's office.

Lambda Delta Unit Plans Canyon Party

Canyon party will highlight next week's activities for members of Lambda Delta Sigma. Everyone is invited to the party which will be held Thursday, July 6, in Aspen Grove under the direction of Melvin Larkin and Aaron Hansen. Meeting place for the canyon party is the lawn in front of the Joseph Smith building.

Marlene Kemper, Cranford, Alta, Canada, was recently elected summer president of Lambda Delta Sigma with Phyllis Allen, Thatcher, Ariz., as vice president and Sharlene Wilcox, Provo, as secretary.

Many activities are planned for the summer by the club officers.

Brigham Young University

Off They Go

An important chapter in the growth and development of the Air Force ROTC detachment at Brigham Young University will come to a close this month when four staff members leave campus for new assignments. The four—Lt. Col. Jesse E. Stay and Sergeants Isom I. Stephens, Morck Hancock, and Charles Sharp—were among the first to arrive on the Provo campus when the unit was activated four years ago.

As far as military historians are concerned, it will be difficult to separate the school's AFROTC history from that of Col. Jesse E. Stay; the two, it seems, were rather synonymous. Col. Stay, we believe, was the right man in the right job at the right time, as far as BYU's Reserve Officer Training Corps was concerned.

It will be difficult, too, to quickly forget the contributions of Morck Hancock, the detachment's likeable, polished-top master sergeant. Morck took considerable pains in keeping a record of the whereabouts of the university's ROTC graduates. Because of his meticulous records, his monthly letters to the boys, and his good-natured joking, Morck's following is legion, as his stream of incoming correspondence will testify.

During the past four years the detachment has turned out a total of 273 commissioned officers in the Air Force Reserve. These officers, all of whom were BYU-trained, constitute a powerful force for good within the Air Force. A majority of these young men are now serving Uncle Sam in nine foreign countries and the United States.

It's also worth noting that during these first four years the ROTC cadets and members of the Sponsor Corps have helped the American Red Cross draw 3,883 pints of whole blood from the faculty and students of BYU.

Now, because Air Force regulations call for an automatic change in assignment after four years as ROTC staff, the four will leave the campus where they took part in the vital stage of work of establishing an Air Force ROTC unit. Some of their finest achievements, however, will remain behind as something more than just a memory.

It Happened Here

Leadership Week—it could only happen on a campus like BYU among a people like the Latter-day Saints. The fact that such a clinic takes place on campus, and with the desired effect, is one that reflects favorably on the spirit and goal of the university and its administration.

The workshop idea isn't exactly new on the university scene. But BYU's Leadership Week seems to have some features that distinguish it from other clinics. For one thing, it is open to all who wish to attend. Anyone, member or non-member, who thirsts for additional knowledge or a bit of specialized training is invited. Age, educational background, or one's station in life is of little importance. The only requisite, as we see it, is a desire to learn.

Education, from the LDS point of view at least, is not a market to be conquered by a few. It is the common property of all people who wish to extend their own frontiers of living and learning.

Perhaps that was the idea in the mind of President Franklin S. Harris in 1922 when he launched the first Leadership Week. Its primary purpose was to give the patrons of BYU a glimpse of the arts and sciences as provided in the school's regular curriculum. Another of its goals was to build faith in the great purposes of the home, the nation, and the Church and increase the ability of the individual to bring these purposes to fruition.

True, there are among our campus visitors some who would sooner be entertained than educated. There are those who only scratch the surface of learning during the week and believe this to be sufficient. But for the majority of Leadership Week's visitors the clinic serves its main purpose—to arouse genuine interest in learning that will keep hungry for further knowledge.

Hill Cumorah Pageant Will Lure Students, Missionaries to New York

A group of 198 students and return missionaries will leave Salt Lake City by bus on the morning of July 28 to participate in the annual Hill Cumorah Pageant, "America's Witness for Christ," according to Dr. Harold I. Hansen, pageant director.

BYU students as well as representatives from the USAC, the University of Utah, and Rigdon College will make up the group. An additional 30 students who have their homes in the east will join them upon their arrival in Palmyra, N. Y. Each person was selected only after being approved by their bishop and the Eastern States Mission President. Arriving in Palmyra the morning of August 1, they will be put under the supervision of the Eastern States Mission President. The participants in the pageant will stay in the homes of the residents of Palmyra. While not in rehearsal, they will attend missionary conducted study classes.

The Utah group will also participate in the missionary conference held in the Sacred Grove each day before the evening pageant performances which are on August 11, 12, and 13. They will return home on August 18.

CAMPUS FAREWELL—Three staff members of BYU Air Force ROTC Detachment will bid farewell to university after four years tour of duty. Holding unit flag are Sgt. Charles Sharp, Col. Jesse E. Stay, and Sgt. Morck Hancock. The three were among first on campus in 1951.

The Last of the First . . .

Original ROTC Staff Members Scheduled to Leave in July

Four members of the military staff that helped establish the Air Force ROTC detachment at Brigham Young University have been assigned new duties and will leave the Provo campus sometime in July.

The last members of the original staff to come to BYU are headed by Lt. Col. Jesse E. Stay, head of the BYU detachment since the unit was activated in May, 1951.

The three other staff members, all non-commissioned officers, are M/Sgt. Morck O. Hancock, T/Sgt. Leon L. Stephens, and S/Sgt. Charles H. Sharp.

Col. Stay will report to command and staff school, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. He was chosen from among 2000 candidates on a "best qualified" basis. Consideration in the choices was given to "retainability and potential" for future service in key command and staff positions.

Sgt. Hancock has been reassigned to a post in the Philippines Islands, where he is to report within the next month. Sgt. Stephens will report to George Air Force Base, Calif., and Sgt. Sharp has been assigned to a post in England.

In the four years the Air Force detachment has been in operation on the BYU campus, 273 cadets have been commissioned officers in the Air Force Reserve.

Enrollment in the BYU program during the autumn quarter of 1951-52 hit an all-time high with a total of 1718 cadets pursuing studies in air science classes.

Since the detachment was activated in 1951 it has developed a full program. Over and above the regular academic and training features of the campus program, the unit has a Roman chorus, a band organization numbering more than 100 members, a Sponsor Corps containing 75

BYU coeds, and a chapter of the Arnold Air Society named after Col. Stay.

The detachment has also been instrumental in Red Cross blood drives, helping draw 3383 pints of whole blood from the faculty and students of BYU.

The new staff member is a graduate of BYU and a native of Verzal. He married the former Tevelene Harber, and they have four children.

As a senior pilot, Maj. Hall has piloted all kinds of bombing and cargo planes. During World War II he was stationed in Italy where he flew bombing missions. In 1948-49 during the hectic days of the Berlin Airlift he piloted C-54's.

He recently returned from Korea and Japan, flying a B-26 from Japan to Florida.

'The Breeze,' Theme For Tonight's Social

Professor Elected National Director At Convention

Grant S. Richards, Brigham Young University associate professor of animal husbandry, was elected one of the national directors of the Holstein Association at the recent annual national convention held in the eastern states.

Professor Richards will represent the entire Rocky Mountain Region at the Association's meetings.

Before his election, Prof. Richards attended the National Holstein Convention in New York and Washington, D. C., where he represented BYU.

Cougars List Ten-Game Grid Slate

A ten-game football schedule for the Brigham Young University Cougars during the 1955 season has been listed by the Y's director of athletics, Edwin R. Kimball.

The schedule, which includes four home games and three inter-sectional battles, will open at Corvallis, Ore., when the Cougars face Oregon State the afternoon of Sept. 17.

Coach Chick Atkinson's boys will then return home for their first home game against Los Angeles State. The other home opponents to play on the BYU gridiron include Utah State, Idaho, and Colorado A&M.

Utah State has been designated as the Cougar opponent for Homecoming Nov. 5, Kimball said.

Football Schedule

Sept. 17—Oregon State at Corvallis.

Sept. 24—Los Angeles State at Provo.

Oct. 1—University of Montana at Missoula.

Oct. 8—University of Utah at Salt Lake City.

Oct. 21—Denver University at Denver.

Oct. 29—University of Wyoming at Laramie.

Nov. 5—Utah State at Provo (Homecoming).

Nov. 11—University of Idaho at Provo.

Nov. 19—Colorado A&M at Provo.

Nov. 26—University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

Plans Outlined For Coming Tim Program

An outline of specific assignments needed for a smooth-running Timpanogos Hike was the main order of business at a general meeting of hike committeemen Wednesday noon.

Dr. C. J. Hart, general chairman of the 44th annual community climb, hosted committee chairmen and workers at an informal kickoff luncheon in the Joseph Smith building.

Although no major changes or innovations in the July 15-16 hike were announced, Dr. Hart said steps are being taken to insure one of the safest, most successful climbs in the history of Utah's outdoor classic.

The committees and their assignments include: Bonfire, Kiwanis Club; camping accommodations, 2030 Club; decorations, Lions Club; first aid, Utah National Parks Council; Merchant window decorations, Junior Chamber of Commerce; reception and seating, Rotary Club; Summit Club; Redesign, Provo Chamber of Commerce; and trails and camp, James L. Jacobs and the Uinta National Forest.

Committee chairmen and their assignments also included: concessions, Bob Harrison; Highway Patrol, Sgt. Melvin W. Grant; lighting, Karl Miller; photo contest, Dr. Wayne B. Hales; police and parking, Sheriff Theron S. Hall and Foot Printers Club; pre-hike program, Dr. Alonzo Morley; and shortwave and communications, Leland Perry.

CLAYTON'S CORNER

Loaded Cage Slate

The Brigham Young basketball schedule for the 1955-56 season ranks with the finest in the nation. Attesting to this fact are the number of formidable opponents gracing the Cougar slate; such potent fives as UCLA and Oregon, Colorado's Big Seven champs and third place NCAA finishers, the traditionally rough Skyline Conference foes plus a host of other fine teams.

Coach Stan Watts' cagers have six important home games to open the season and it's a safe bet that near-capacity crowds will be on hand for most of the tilts.

UCLA, winner of the Southern Division of the Pacific Coast Conference, provides the opposition for the Cats' initial series of the year, and these two games should be crowd-pleasers all the way.

It is fine to see the Cougars adopt such big-time schedules such as this basketball slate. The school is growing beyond the proportions of a small Church institution and in athletics, as well as other aspects of college life, should so expand its realm of activity.

The hope of many students is that, in the near future, the BYU football squad can assume a large-scale status and achieve the glory attained by the cagers.

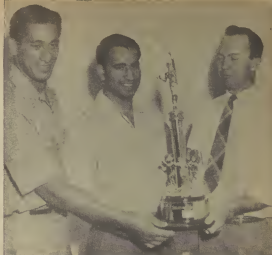

It will take work and planning, but then again, don't large scale projects?

Why Not Softball?

With these fine summer nights gracing the local scene it's too bad that some type of intramural softball program cannot be conducted during the school terms.

We realize that many problems exist in the conduct of such an activity, but it should be worth a try, anyway.

Is it too early for World Series prognostications or would I be out of place predicting the Yankees over Brooklyn in seven games? Also, watch out for the National Leaguers in the impending Major League All-Star tussle at Milwaukee.

INTRAMURAL CHAMPIONS—The Hawaiian Club, winners of the Men's Intramural Supremacy Trophy, are shown as a group. The squad from the Islands copped several of the athletic events to edge out the PEM Club for the trophy.
